According to the almanac, and also the thermometer, this is the first day of spring. We forget what the groundhog's idea was, but if Jack Frost will hold aloof we are willing to take an early spring.

If the Japanese, as is reported, insist that the members of the league of nations accord the same treatment to all subjects of nations included in the league, the United States will be put in something of a hole. It would mean that this country repeal the existing exclusion laws against Japanese, and if China becomes a member of the league the same must be done in the case of Chinese. Not only that, but state laws, which are outside of the jurisdiction of the national government, will cause trouble and there you are. The exclusion law has always been a source of complaint from the Japanese and she is now in a position to raise some embarrassing questions.

THE BIG REVENUE BILL.

Almost the first thing Mr. Wilson did when he started for Washington after his address in Boston, was to sign the $4,000,000,000 war revenue tax bill. It is now a law, and the Internal Revenue Department will start the big job of finding out who must pay and how to collect. If some of this tax was directed towards foreign imports and importers of foreign products, the expense of collection would be far less per dollar, and a large part of the burden would be shifted to aliens. But a Free-Trade Congress could not or would not see it.—American Economist.

The above is from a sheet maintained by the protected interests of the East and indicates the course of action the coming Republican congress will take. Under the Wilson administration and the policy of an income tax the Eastern manufacturers, who under the years of Republican rule fattened at the expense of the rest of the country, have had to cough up a lot of the cash that formerly came from the consumers of the nation, especially from the agricultural regions of the South and West, and it goes against their nature. They had come to believe the entire consuming public was their meat and created for them to exploit, hence the howl now being made. It is contrary to their nature to pay their just part of running the government and they now insist that the country return to the good old days when the rest of the United States was taxed for their benefit. The biggest joke in the above is the exploded idea that the foreigner pays the tariff tax. The ultimate consumer has always had this tax to pay and in addition he has paid a round sum to the manufacturer who is protected by the tariff and raises his prices to the level permitted by the tariff. Indirect taxation is the most inequitable and pernicious form since it takes money out of a man's pocket without his being aware of the fact. Under the present form of direct taxation the East is for once carrying its part of the load and it doesn't like it.

COME IN—YOU'RE WELCOME.

There has been little news more pleasing to the people of Ada and Pontotoc County, if the News is any judge, than that announced a few days ago that Stratford and a strip of territory three miles deep and fifteen miles long may decide to leave Garvin County and annex itself to Pontotoc. Stratford is a beautiful little city, enterprising, energetic and surrounded by some of the most fertile land in the state. The entire strip of territory is a good farming country and is rich in other resources. The addition of this territory to Pontotoc will be a distinct asset and an asset to be proud of.

Then, too, we believe we can be of some assistance to the people of that territory. We already have a good road to Stratford. As soon as possible this will be paved either with concrete or with some hard surfaced paving. Good roads will go out from this trunk line both north and south. There is also a fair road to Maxwell, permitting the folks north of Stratford to come through that way if they want to get to Ada to transact legal business. From the low end of the territory in question the folks can come by way of Roff and will strike a good road as soon as they get into what is now this county.

It seems to the News that we can be mutually helpful to put our affairs together. As it is, many of the Stratford business men have connections of one kind or another here already. It will be more convenient to transact their legal business at the same place they have other business.

We believe the election will be called in a few days. We understand the number of petitions necessary has already been secured. We hope the matter will be rushed. Come on in, fellows, and we assure you a royal welcome is awaiting you.

The Shawnee News-Herald states that the women cast a heavy vote in the city election at that place Tuesday, but that the men seemed to hold aloof and take little stock in the election. The News-Herald wonders if the men stayed away from the polls because of the women or if they have quit the job and are letting the women run things.

New Jersey legislature refused to ratify the dry amendment to the national constitution. However, as forty five other states have already taken favorable action New Jersey will not change the result.

Women's Auxiliary Social.

One of the most delightful social events of the week was the afternoon spent in the cozy home of Mrs. Fowler on 608 W. 12th St., by the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church, Monday, March 17th. The hostess assisted by Mesdames Adair, Bowman, Fretwell and Ford had decorated the sunny rooms, throughout with St. Patrick suggestions. Shamrocks were given as souvenirs. Several musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. R. W. Simpson on her Saxophone accompanied by her son, Richard Walker and Mr. Cruz on the cornet and flute. An Edison was the means of Anna Case, Arthur Middleton and Harry Louder, making the evening more pleasant with their melodies. Mrs. Stauffer favored those present with one of her quaint readings. A contest, arranged by the hostesses, called into action the quick wits and powers of concentration when the guests, on marching by a table, covered with small objects, were required to write the names of the articles observed thereon, without losing step. The one possessing the keenest eyes and best memory proved to be Mrs. C. O. Barton, for which she was awarded a handsome box of candy. The ladies were then served to a two course luncheon consisting of chili and wafers, pie and coffee. This was the second of a series of socials, "just among ourselves" given by the Auxiliary, that are bringing the ladies into closer touch and making them better acquainted with each other, thereby promoting good feelings and enabling them to work more harmoniously and effectively toward the up-building of His Kingdom.

TURKS MAY NEED STRONG LESSON

LONDON, March 1.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The Turks are by no means convinced that they are vanquished, and show few signs of regret that they were ever the Allies of the Central Powers, according to a French correspondent who has returned from Constantinople. The correspondent attributes this failure on the part of the Turks to realize their actual situation to the fact that the British and French commanders in the Turkish capital have not acted like conquerors and imposed their authority on the Turks.

The correspondent declares that he was unable to convince the leading Turks of the complete victory of the allies and of the definitive crushing of the German military power, and adds that this is due to the fact that the allied troops did not enter Stamboul with flags flying, because the allied officers did not install themselves as masters in the different ministries, and because the military authorities did not take over all the administrative offices and police the city.

The Committee of Union and Progress no longer exists, legally, says the Frenchman, but its creatures still occupy their posts in the ministries and in the police service. "They are very active and offer us a very bitter and systematic opposition," he continued. "This frequently takes the form of spreading rumors of disagreement between France and England on the subject of the future of Turkey. They assert that it would be to the advantage of England and France to placate Turkey and to leave Constantinople as the Turkish capital."

On one of the Princes Islands—Prinkipo—the German marshal, Von Sanders Liman Pascha, is comfortably lodged and receives the adherents of the old regime and, between dessert and cheese they openly plot against us without fear of disturbance.

"The Germans who knew the Turks treated them as they should be treated, with brutal force, and that is the only attitude which can be adopted towards them. We should bring home to them the realization that the allies in reality the conquerors. We must act with energy and firmness, if we desire to retain our predominant influence in Turkey."

BUTTER BRINGS HIGH PRICES IN SIBERIA

By the Associated Press
VLADIVOSTOK, March 20.—Butter production in Siberia has nearly stopped, according to local newspapers, owing to a government monopoly which fixed a price lower than cost. Most of the West Siberian butter producers turned to cheese making in consequence. Peasants and cattle owners are finding it unprofitable to keep their herds and are selling them.

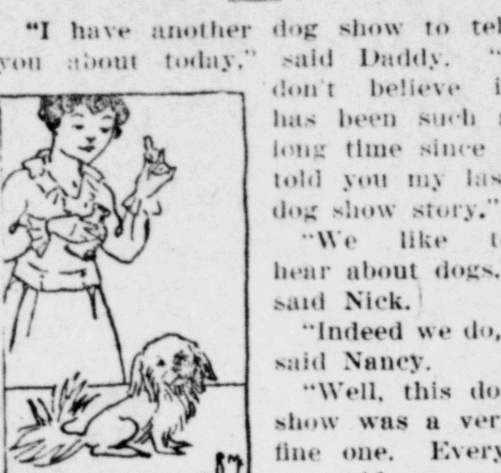

The monopoly on butter introduced by the Kerensky government and perpetuated by the Bolsheviks and other governments since, has resulted in complete demoralization of cattle breeding. After the monopoly became effective butter accumulated in the hands of the authorities until they were at a loss to know how to dispose of it. Great quantities were used as machine lubricant.

Today, as a result of decreased production, the price has increased in Central Siberia to 6 1-2 rubles a pound.

THE DOG SHOW.

They Even Had Perfume.

was because the money that was taken in all went to a home for animals, for stray and forlorn and homeless animals. There homes were found for them and sick dogs were made well again.

"So all the dogs felt very fine that they were on exhibition and that people were coming to look at them as they gave their money to the dogs' home."

"There were dogs of all kinds and descriptions. The Irish wolf hounds were there, looking about with wild, wild eyes."

"The white Russian wolf hounds with their long pointed faces and beautiful white bodies were greatly admired."

"There were the Pointers with their black-and-white spotted bodies. They were whining as they talked to each other."

"Some very fine dogs named Samoyeds, like white Chow dogs, were there, as well as the gray Chows and the black Chows and the usual brownish red Chows."

"The Dalmatians, very big dogs, with black and white spots, were pulling up the sawdust with their feet and having a great deal of fun."

"At last it was time for the different dogs to walk around the rings and to jump to see which ones were to get the prizes."

"There were roses for the mistresses of the dogs, every dog was combed and brushed, his or her hair made to look just so, and everything was done to beautify every dog."

"They walked around the various rings, all trying to look beautiful for their mistress' sake. Their heads were held high, they sniffed the air keenly and they looked very bright and intelligent and very fine as they were shown off to the judges."

"Some little black-and-tan toy dogs were very skinny and tiny. They shook with nervousness—not because there was anything to be afraid of, but because they were always nervous."

"They were brushed with alcohol, dog powder was used, and they even had perfume put on their royal selves!"

"The big St. Bernards were magnificent-looking. They didn't make funny little squealing, barking sounds like the little dogs, because, of course, they were too big to do such things."

"One was named Searchlight, another Highlander, another Boy, one Lovelace, another Delight, and another Emergency, which meant that that dog was always on hand when he was needed."

"One was named Alabama because his home was in Alabama; another was named March, another Portia, and the last of the St. Bernard dogs was named Boy Blue."

"There were collies, too, and Great Danes, looking very handsome and fine."

"The Irish setters were there, looking just as friendly and kindly as ever, while the bull terriers, fox terriers, Air-dale terriers, wearing smart blue sweaters and playing ball, said they had come for a good time, as they barked cheerfully at passers-by."

"The old English sheep dogs, with their soft brown, white or gray hair; the greyhounds, the West Highland terriers, Irish terriers, Scottish black terriers, Sealyham terriers, white and shaggy dogs—some with white ears and some with black ears—all these were on hand."

"When they weren't being shown off to see if they were to get ribbons or prizes they barked and slept and ate and chatted dog-talk."

"But one little dog stood outside the building where the show was being held, wearing a harness, on each side of which was a cup. In these cups people put coins to help the work of the Dogs' Home, and every time a coin was put in a cup the little dog wagged his tail and barked 'Thank you!'"

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

Science says that old age begins with weakened kidneys and digestive organs. This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been relieving the weakness and disability due to advancing years. It is a standard old-time home remedy and needs no introduction. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil is included in odorless, tasteless capsules containing about 5 drops each. Take them as you would a pill, with a swallow of water. The oil stimulates the kidney action and enables the organs to throw off the poisons which cause premature old age. New life and strength increase as you continue the treatment. When completely restored continue taking a capsule or two each day. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules will keep you in health and vigor and prevent a return of the disease.

Do not wait until old age or disease have settled down for good. At the first sign that your kidneys are not working properly, go to your druggist and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Money refunded if they do not help you. Three sizes. But remember to ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. In sealed packages.

GREAT AMERICAN SAPRANO COMING

The Ada High School is announcing this week the Lucy Gates concert, the second number of the most extraordinary courses ever offered in Ada. The first number was Arthur Middleton, the celebrated artist baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York.

Miss Gates enjoys a wonderful reputation as an artist and singer and leading critics, such as Walter Damrosch, rank her with Galli-Curci whose roles she has frequently taken in the Metropolitan company. She is purely an American product and will prove to you, as she has proven to thousands of others that a foreign name and foreign training is by no means a badge of artistic accomplishment and that the good old American name and modern American training is as good as the best that the world can produce.

Miss Gates sang recently at Shawnee and all who heard her are loud in her praise. It is assured that the people of Ada will have a great musical treat on April 4th, the date of her appearance here.

An Appeal to Oklahomans.

As the chief executive officer of the State of Oklahoma, I want to appeal to the generous citizenship of this state that they do all in their power the week from March 24th to March 31st to assist in the collection of castoff wearing apparel for the helpless refugees in allied countries. Our representatives in those countries report that the need of clothing in war torn lands is one of the most serious reconstruction problems, and the American Red Cross has asked that the week of March 24th to March 31st inclusive be recognized throughout this and other states as the "Red Cross Clothing Campaign Week."

I, therefore, as Governor of the State, urge that, by donation and by your personal service in aiding in this collection of wearing apparel, all the citizens of the state aid so far as possible by giving from their abundance to this worthy cause, and that each community, through its selected committee, endeavor to make this effort on behalf of the needy the most successful in our many "drives."

GERMANS SLOW TO RECOGNIZE DEFEAT

COBLENZ, Feb. 26.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Articles in the German press and speeches and interviews with German public men since the armistice went into effect show that German point of view still is completely at variance with that of the rest of the world, asserts one of the political experts with the American army of occupation.

In a recent article on the question of German psychology, published in the intelligence summary of the Third Army, the political expert who is an officer of high authority, says: "The German feels that, first and foremost, his army was not only unbeaten but had all the military prestige of the war. Then he knew that there was increasing scarcity of victuals at home and feeling that the allies were in mortal dread of new drives by the German army and would be only too glad to compromise, proposed an armistice."

"Germany expected all the world to supply her gladly with all her needs and, as a mark of good faith and to encourage the allies, offered to allow them to advance to the Rhine. Now the Germans affect to wonder why Germany is not completely supplied by the allies and why the garrisons having been allowed to see the Rhine scenery do not withdraw."

"Of course, the more ignorant classes might be expected to take this attitude but when these ideas appear in addresses by Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, by Scheidemann and by the Crown Prince the result is more than puzzling. All the people consider, apparently, that the armistice was a argument for mutual benefit and any idea that the war was anything but a draw with the prestige all on the German side has not yet penetrated the German mind."

BRITISH WOMEN WORKERS SERIOUS PROBLEM

LONDON, March 1.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—An economic battle is being waged over the 1,500,000 unemployed women of the country who earned good wages chiefly as munitions workers during the war. Some English newspapers and commentators are asking if a sex war is one of the sinister possibilities of the future.

They point out that the situation is more dangerous now than when the suffragettes were wont to smash windows and terrorize the London police because the women did not then know the full measure of their power.

Since the armistice was signed it has become more and more apparent that these 1,500,000 women workers would have to return to private life so as to give opportunity of employment for returning soldiers. But they have not accepted the situation with good grace, and have answered the challenge of the economic condition by strong organizations whose avowed intention is to safeguard the position of woman in industry.

The most important of these is Lady Rhondra's newly inaugurated Woman's Industrial League which has opened offices in London and sent organizers into all parts of the country. Lady Rhondra's plans are viewed with suspicion and some measure of distrust by professional woman labor leaders.

Dr. Marion Phillips, chief woman officer of the Labor Party, asserts that the agitation conducted by Lady Rhondra's league is calculated to lead to bitterness and sex strife between men and women workers.

INQUISITIVE MEMBERS OF HOUSE OF COMMONS

LONDON, March 1. — The new House of Commons is proving itself one of the most inquisitive of recent years. This, too, despite the absence of the Irish members who in previous years have filled the question paper with inquiries.

Since the opening of the parliament the number of questions to ministers has averaged well over 200 and some days has reached near 300. As only an hour is allowed each day for the asking and answering of questions only about a hundred can be dealt with daily, the others being answered in writing. This does not satisfy the curiosity of the new members, who recently asked that the time should be extended by an hour and a quarter.

In refusing the request, Mr. Bonar Law, the Government leader in the House of Commons, said every question asked cost the country $5, chiefly in printing, not counting the time of the permanent staffs of the different departments, who have to collect the data.

District No. 2 of the First Baptist church will have a market at Stanfield's Grocery Saturday. Phone you wants Thursday or Friday to Mrs. Braly, 338-J. 3-19-31.

STRATFORD FOLK HAVE ADA GUESTS

CITIZENS OF PONTOTOC ASSURE PEOPLE OF EASTERN GARVIN THAT THEY WILL BE WELCOME.

Sixteen automobiles loaded with men and women of Ada went to Stratford Wednesday afternoon to demonstrate to the citizens of that town and surrounding country how anxious the people of this county are to have the fifteen-mile strip of Garvin county connected to Pontotoc. The train of cars left Ada about 1:30 and arrived in Stratford fifty minutes later. The road between the two cities is in good condition, and is undergoing improvements all the time. With a bit more work, which Commissioner-Elect Laughlin is now doing, the road will be in tip-top shape, and Stratford will be only thirty-five minutes away.

When the Adaites arrived in Stratford, they were made to feel at home, the Stratford folk welcoming the visitors in true southern style. Everybody met everybody else, swapped the time of day, the kind of weather and expressed the desire to be united. After all had become acquainted, Judge Joe Edwards of Stratford welcomed the visitors to Stratford and assured them that the Stratford folk appreciated the visit. He said preparations are already in progress to vote the strip of Garvin county three miles wide and fifteen miles long extending along the Pontotoc line into this county. He predicted that this would be an easy matter.

Judge Edwards complimented Ada and the Ada citizens on their business-like methods and the success they had made in building a town and helping to build a county.

Robert Wimble addressed the crowd for a few minutes and assured the citizens of what is now Garvin that they do not want to get into Pontotoc county any more than the people of this county want them in. He said that Governor Haskell once requested that a petition from Ada citizens be presented in writing, as he was afraid to let the representatives get into his office, for fear they would take everything in sight. He was illustrating that fact that Ada gets what she goes after.

M. King assured the audience that this county will be delighted to have a new addition, especially the good people of the western part of Garvin county.

J. F. McKeel said the delegation was a bunch of woosers, courting the Stratford folk. With Governor Robertson acting as justice of the peace, the bride and bridegroom will meet on the prairie between Ada and Stratford and be united in the holy bonds of matrimony. He insisted we are ready to share with those in the strip of territory our good roads, officers, schools and natural products.

Wayne Waddington wants more law abiding and hospitable people in this county. He was certain that they will soon come in.

Judge Orel Busby insisted that Stratford had not been treated right so far as roads are concerned. The roads around Stratford do not show the interest of the county seat folk at Pauls Valley. Pontotoc will not be content to have a good dirt road to Stratford, but will insist upon a hard-surfaced road.

Col. J. W. Davis, recalling the early days of his life when he was a Sunday school pupil, said Moses was taken upon a high mountain and permitted to look over at the fair land of Canaan. The people of Ada and Pontotoc county will do better than this. They will not only let the people in the territory in question look upon the fair land of Canaan, but will let them come in and share in the riches and the blessings. We have gas, oil, cement, asphalt and other resources, all of which we shall be glad to share in common.

J. P. Crawford insisted that it was not Pontotoc's place to take the initiative, but since the citizens of Stratford had taken the initiative, we are willing to do all that we can to make the connection.

Tom Ferris of Stratford, while unwilling to make a long speech, insisted that the territory will join Pontotoc without any question.

Other speakers to assure the hosts that they will be welcomed into the fold were A. C. Chaney, C. E. B. Cutler and E. N. Jones. All of these judges made rousing speeches and told of the advantages that will result from a marriage.

Before leaving Ada, the visitors heard that Pauls Valley was to meet them in Stratford for a discussion of the advisability of Stratford's leaving Garvin county. The Pauls Valley crowd, however, failed to put in an appearance.

For the first time since woman suffrage became a reality in Oklahoma did the women of Ada have an opportunity to mix with the male voters on an equality of strength. Several Ada ladies were in the crowd and did their part in demonstrating to the voters of Stratford that it will be satisfactory for this county to have more voters and more territory.

The trip, the Stratford folk say, convinced the citizens of eastern Garvin county that "Barkis is willin'."

DOCTOR SAID LUNGS WERE TOO FAR GONE

But Miss Green's Recovery Proves That There Is Hope for Many Consumptives.

"One of the best physicians in Terre Haute said he could not save me, as my lungs were too far gone. Another physician treated me for three months and then gave me up. Then I had three very bad hemorrhages and was nearly skin and bones. My lungs pained me all the time. Every time I coughed it nearly killed me. I commenced taking Milks Emulsion in April, 1906. My appetite improved. The soreness left my lungs and I commenced to gain in flesh and strength rapidly. My face soon lost that haggard look. I now weigh 159½ pounds. ### ROCKS HIS BABY BACK TO LIFE

Father's Last Loving Rite Restores Child Believed to Be Dead.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—Little four-year-old Laverne Scattergood was pronounced dead. Her father and mother were heartbroken and the attending nurse went about the task of getting the death robes ready and preparing the body for the undertaker.

E. A. Scattergood, the father, entered the room with tears streaming from his eyes. He had been accustomed to rocking baby every night, and he decided to take the little one

Suddenly Came a Scream From the Father.

In his arms for the last time. He rocked and cried while the nurse went on with her work. Suddenly there came a scream from the father, and the nurse hurried to him.

"She is living," he said; "she is living, and I know it."

The nurse thought she saw signs of life. Baby was placed in her bed, hot water bottles were applied, and violent rubbing started the circulation. When the doctor arrived the baby was very much alive.

All that happened a few days ago. Now little Laverne is improving and the doctor expects her to recover from pneumonia.

"All the time she was sick," said the father, "I thought that if I could rock her as I did every night she would get better. When they said she was dead, I believed it. But I decided to rock her just once more, and maybe I am not glad that I decided to."

EARNS MONEY TO PAY FINE

Farmer Then, Returns to Court and Announces That He Is Ready to Serve Sentence.

Seattle, Wash.—Miles Powell, a farmer, was before the federal court here charged with operating a liquor still.

"What's your business?" asked Judge Jeremiah Netere.

"My business is to plead guilty to the charge," said Powell.

"Your candor is refreshing," murmured the court.

Powell was asked if he thought he could pay the minimum fine. He said he could not, but was willing to go to work and earn the money. When he again appeared in court recently he brought with him the $100 fine and announced he was willing to start serving his sentence of 30 days in jail. He is now "doing time."

SHORT CHANGE ARTISTS BUSY

Dust Off Old System and Use It With Considerable Success on Merchants in Georgia.

Macon, Ga.—Short change artists have been bilking stores and shops in Macon for several weeks past. The system, though quite old, was dusted off again and used here.

One of the trio would make a small purchase and give a $10 bill. When he received change he would discover suddenly that he had a coin of the right denomination and handing the cashier part of the change ask that a $5 bill be given him. When this was done he suddenly thrust the $5 bill back at the cashier and asked that his $10 bill be given back. Meanwhile his confederates were loudly clamoring to be waited on immediately, saying they were in a hurry.

The board also took up the matter of selecting an architect for the proposed new ward building and agreed on Jewell Hicks of Oklahoma City. The sale of the proposed bonds will be taken up at the meeting of Monday evening.

Armageddon, mentioned in Revelation 10:16, was the plain of Esdraelon, the scene of Israelish victories, and hence the term is used to signify the scene of a momentous test of any kind, especially of a decisive battle. It was used by the Progressive national convention in 1912, and has been frequently used in connection with the war.

How Man's Strength Fluctuates.

The strength of males increases rapidly from twelve to nineteen years, and more slowly and regularly up to thirty years, after which it declines. The strength of females increases at a more uniform rate from nine to nineteen years, more slowly to thirty, after which it falls off.

Generally Has That Idea.

When Rhoda Atoned

By JACK LAWTON

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Paul Webster was a never-ending source of interest—and speculation—to his townspeople. For though he had grown up among them, and many remembered the days of his care-free boyhood, Paul had among them no intimate or confident. Even a natural affection for the opposite sex seemed to have been denied him.

Paul, falling into the succeeding line of lawyers in his family, took up the business where his father laid it down, and modestly started upon his career, with neither alteration nor improvement of the old, well-known office. But in Paul's practice there was this difference, money was not an important factor; his ambition was to remedy matters where most needed. And his free consultations were a great benefit to the countryside. The housekeeper who prepared Paul's meals in the unchanged home of his father spoke admiringly of his sweet and patient disposition.

Many maidens who secretly admired his fine dark eyes and the whitening wavy hair on his forehead, sighed disconsolately at his indifference. Paul's distinguished bearing and manner of speech must always bring to him an admiration, neither sought nor desired.

Rhoda Caruth, in her stately mansion at the end of the town's avenue, had come the nearest to winning Paul's friendship. But as years passed even that friendship seemed to drift into a sort of perfunctory acquaintance.

It was not strange that Paul's interest to his townspeople remained. Rhoda was altogether charming; even now with her first youth past, the charm remained. And Rhoda was wealthy, sole heir to her Aunt Agatha's fortune.

One evening, when the early moonlight turned the tall poplars to silver, Rhoda came forth in her white gown and, descending the broad stone steps of her home, walked swiftly down the long street to where a light still burned in Paul Webster's office window. And when she had climbed the narrow stair to his door, she stood breathless and pale, awaiting his appearance. Paul, too, was pale when he saw her there, but he bowed courteously as she stated her errand.

"I have come," said Rhoda, "to have you straighten out some property papers. I am going to—dispose of my home."

"Your home?" echoed Paul. Absently he drew forth a chair, and Rhoda sat down and looked into his eyes. It was very long since they had sat like this. Paul arose abruptly. Rhoda smiled.

"I wish," she said, "to donate my home for a city hospital, and you, to arrange the matter. Wait," she interrupted Paul's evident intention to speak. "I want to explain myself."

"You, who knew me in my girlhood, will remember Aunt Agatha's complete dominion over me. There were those who put a false construction upon my docility, believing the hope of obtaining aunt's property to be my motive. But this was never so. Only one in my place could realize the penalty of disobedience to her wishes. In one of aunt's frightful hysterical attacks—I don't know what else to call them—annoyance or disregard for her will would be sure to bring on a spasm which might last for hours, leaving both her physician and myself exhausted. And so—when I fell in love, not with a girl's passing fancy, but as a woman must love but once and forever, I failed to acknowledge the truth to my aunt, knowing that her wish was to keep me free—unmarried, as she had been, and the continued dispenser of her charities. But—my lover was also dominating and his cause was just.

"Impatient at my dallying, he took me with him one summer day to a country parsonage, and—we were married. You see, I cannot yet speak of that time without a break in my voice, and tears in my eyes. I loved him so, yet like one other traitor—I had denied him within the hour. Masterfully my husband announced the fact of our marriage standing beside my Aunt's chair, and while her face already growing livid turned to mine—I denied the truth—poor, fearful, trembling coward that I was. My husband had gone, I would have called him back. But the shocking announcement brought on one of aunt's prolonged attacks. And—when she had gone, they read to me the will. Because of my allegiance to her, I was sole heir to her fortune.

When my husband heard, he believed what all had believed before him but with deeper reason. I was so despicable in his sight that my letters to him came back unopened, and no soul, save an old country minister, ever knew of our marriage. So now, Paul, I come to you to help me to dispose of that which was never rightfully mine."

The woman's voice ended tremulously, while the man with tense face leaned toward her.

"And then, Rhoda?" he added gently, "what will you do? Could you still care for this man whose hurt was so deep that it rankled through all the years? Could you still believe in his love for you, Rhoda?"

"Because I have believed in that love I come," the woman answered softly.

And Paul Webster closely clasped his wife in his arms.

Quit Betting On A Sure Loss

Occasionally we meet a man who wants to build a home, but is waiting until material gets cheaper. He goes on spending for rent, betting the family funds that later he can build for less.

It's a losing game. Building materials, in the opinion of experts, will not be much cheaper for five years or more, during which time, should you build NOW, you would almost pay for a home.

On the Wrong Track

Sometimes you hear a man say "Oh, you can't hurt the battery."

He forgets to add distilled water.

He steps too long on his starter instead of cleaning his spark plugs.

He puts in acid instead of having his battery charged.

He never has a Hydrometer test made.

And when his battery suddenly quits he can't realize that it has been gradually dying from neglect and abuse.

It's a fallacy to believe that you can neglect any battery without suffering the consequences.

The Bone-Dry Willard Battery with Threaded Rubber Insulation is made to give unusual service and long life, but it must be kept charged, and has to be supplied with pure water.

FROM BURNET, TEXAS.

Editor News:

The old saying is true in many cases that a man who has once been in the newspaper business never gets entirely over it, and I know it is true with me. Although I retired some 12 or 15 years ago with broken health, an enthusiastic crop of enemies, and quite hump backed from carrying around my accumulated wealth, this heart still pines for the old calling. It is a habit with me yet to watch the register, the proof and the impression of every paper and magazine that comes to hand.

"I see a Baptist while I live, And Baptist till I die."

I can heartily congratulate you and your associates upon the general "get-up" of the News; its clear print, remarkable freedom from typographical errors, the pointed editorials and paragraphs, and the modest "scare heads"—catchy enough, but not after the disgusting box-car style. When I used to send you out to the other printing office in Burnet for "several yards of editorial" and a "quart of italic spaces," I had no idea you would ever be at the head of a live daily in a thriving city, for you were too young for me to phrenologize your chances for fame! May the Ada News' shadow never grow less, but ever prosper and continue as now in defense of right!

Speaking of Texas we have just passed through as mild a winter as the one before it was severe. There have been few very cold days with two or three little snows that melted as fast as they fell. But rain! Oh, my. It has come nearly every week of the season. In fact, the winter has been unprecedented. You who have lived in or visited Texas, think of a rainfall of 20 inches in about three months! The consequence is the ground is soaked down two or three feet, the creeks all running and the surface soil so wet most of the time the farmers are all behind with their work and "bedding" their corn land to insure any sort of crop. The fact is, they are planting corn right now "between showers." But the promise of a big oat and wheat yield is great. There has been winter grass enough to carry the cattle over in passable condition, although some died from grazing too much in the rank wheat that was slightly frosted.

The tick eradication business now interests the cattle men more than anything else at this time. The new law requires the construction of many dipping vats in the cattle section, with a heavy penalty attached for neglect to immerse the infected flocks. I own just one cow which I "tick" myself while the madam "boss of the ranch" squeezes the lacteal fluid from the gentle Jersey's udder. Poverty hath its compensations.

Well, Bro. Norrell, thank God the war is over. At that no two states showed more gallant fighting boys at the front than those of Oklahoma and Texas. I have a boy still in France, who, as poor Brutus said of his wife, "is as dear to me as the ruddy drops that visit this sad heart," and I want to see him mighty bad, but rejoice that he volunteered in the glorious cause, and cherish the hope of seeing him once more in the flesh. My soul goes out in sympathy for all the thousands of fathers and mothers of the land suffering with this hunger that cannot be described in words.

With best wishes for you and yours, I am,

Your old friend,

DAILY HEALTH TALK

The Troubles Women Have
BY L. MAC LEAN, M. D.

Probably no man in America was better qualified to successfully treat diseases peculiar to women than Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. The cases that come to him run into many thousands, giving him an experience that rarely comes to any one man. Dr. Pierce found that in nearly every case there were certain vegetable growths which rarely failed to give prompt relief in those feminine disorders from which so many women suffer. He combined these roots and herbs into a temperance medicine that he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for that is precisely what it was. This medicine is sold in both liquid and tablet form by druggists everywhere. Favorite Prescription is a distinct remedy for women and acts directly upon the organs that characterize the sex. It is not necessary to take a long course of treatment with this standard medicine. A weakly, sickly, backache, headache, nervous, despondent woman, with regular or irregular pains—with feminine disorders that come in youth or middle age—is pretty sure to find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the exact remedy that her condition calls for, and to find it after a very few doses are taken. Why women should allow themselves to stay sick when a very little money spent for this remedy will probably make them well, is something no one can explain.

All women who suffer from feminine disorders are invited to write the Faculty of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free confidential consultation and advice, no charge being made for this high professional service. This will enable every woman to benefit by the advice of the distinguished corps of physicians which Dr. Pierce has gathered about him in his celebrated Buffalo institution.

When constipation is present with feminine disorders, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken along with Favorite Prescription. Try them now!

POINTERS ON PAVING STREETS OF ADA

The agitation for street paving should not be allowed to lag by the reappearance of the sunshine and the drying of the mud hole in the driveway. Since we know by experience that the sun will not always shine and that the mud hole will reappear unless the streets are paved. Something should be done now to avoid the intolerable street conditions that have existed for the past few months. The only sane solution of this question that has been offered is to pave the streets and proceed to do it now. The most serious objection to paving that has been offered is the great burden of expense that has been borne in the past by the property owners along the street paved. This is an unfair burden it may be admitted. A paved street is a city asset and a benefit to every property owner in every part of the city, and it is only fair that all the property in the city should bear a part of the cost of such improvement. This it seems can be done under the law as now written. Section 619 of the Oklahoma statutes sets out the manner of assessing the costs of street improvements against the abutting property, but there is a proviso to that section as follows: "that the mayor and council may, in their discretion, provide for the payment of the cost of improving street intersections and alley crossings out of the general revenues, or as provided in section 575." This section 575 authorizes the council to make any and all improvements in the city of a general nature, including street intersections, and to borrow money and to issue negotiable bonds for the purpose of paying for the same, when "instructed, so to do by three-fifths of the qualified property tax-paying voters of such city, voting at any election held in such city at which such proposition is submitted." Provision is also made in this section for the issuing of ten-year bonds bearing 6 percent interest for paying such expense and for levying taxes for paying the bonds and interest.

It would therefore seem that a part of the expenses of paving the streets can be paid by the city—and that this objection to street improvement is not well taken and that there are two methods of charging the city with this expense, namely: At the discretion of the mayor and council it may be paid out of the general revenues or, second, it may be met by a bond issue when directed by a vote of three-fifths of the property owners of the city voting therefor.

The bond issue would seem to be the better method to pursue in fixing this expense. Every citizen of Ada in favor of street improvement should get busy right now and name the street he wants paved and join in asking the mayor and council to estimate the cost of the street intersections and alley crossings and to assume that part of the expense of the street paving and to call an election so that the qualified voters may authorize a bond issue to take care of that part of the cost of making our home time, in fact, the city beautiful.

AUXILIARY ORGANIZED

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING OF LADIES FAVORING CLEANER CITY.

"Let's clean up materially and morally," was the spirit of the mass meeting held by the ladies at the Christian Church Wednesday afternoon.

The members of the Commercial Club, having realized their shortcomings and inability to compete with all phases of the material and moral developments of the city, have very cordially invited, as an Auxiliary to their Club, the members of the fair sex, which invitation, they have very willingly accepted.

Since the mind of modern woman is reverted from the war work which it has so diligently pursued for some time past, to the maintaining of the Double A standard which has been adopted by this city, the ladies are found again eagerly plunging into this work with vim and enthusiasm.

A goodly crowd was called to order by Supt. Hickman, who made clear the purpose of this organization, stating that it was purely "a creedless organization" and was being organized for civic improvements and the betterment of the city in general, and might justly be called, at this time, a "Spring Clean-up Campaign."

R. W. Simpson and Mayor Kitchen spoke words of commendation to the ladies entering upon this work.

Mrs. Tom Hope presided as temporary chairman for the meeting.

Those who enrolled as members of this organization were as follows: Mesdames Chas. A. Powers, Byron Norrell, W. B. Jones, Robert Wimbish, Anna L. Ingram, C. O. Barton, Joe A. Biles, M. L. Perkins, J. W. Gordon, Tom Hope, John P. McKinley, R. W. Simpson, W. E. McKelvey, Alfred Vaden, J. M. Vaden, Orville Snead, R. O. Wheeler, A. B. Zorn, A. C. Chaney, W. D. Frank, Ella Barrett, P. H. Deal, S. E. Rains, Thomas P. Holt, John McKinley, R. E. Haynes, S. P. Ross, R. A. Herndon, R. W. Stewart, C. V. Dunn, Wayne Wadlington, M. F. Manville, Misses Emma H. Barton, Helen A. Turner and Kate K. Knight.

From those enrolled two directors were elected from each ward as follows: Ward 1, Mesdames Hope and Norrell; Ward 2, Mesdames Holt and Wimbish; Ward 3, Mesdames C. O. Barton and R. W. Stewart; Ward 4, Miss Emma Barton and Mrs. John McKinley. Mrs. Biles was elected director at large. From these nine directors the following officers were elected: Chairman, Mrs. Tom Hope; Vice Chairman, Mrs. Norrell; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. McKinley.

Every woman who is interested in making more beautiful this city to live in and more attractive to the visitor, is urged to become a member of this organization and share your part in the work.

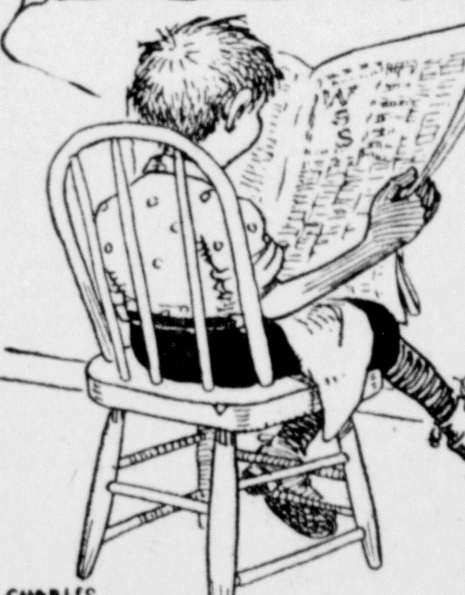

A membership campaign will be pushed with vigor and all ladies of the city urged to join.

MISS LONA REYNOLDS DIES AT HER HOME AT ATOKA

Word has just been received in Ada of the death of Miss Lona Reynolds at Atoka, death being due to influenza, followed by pneumonia and other diseases. She was a daughter of H. W. H. (Billie) Reynolds and had a host of friends in Ada. During the years of 1915 and 1916 she took the music course at the Normal under Miss Keller and developed into a talented music teacher. Several times she has brought her glee club and choruses out from Coalgate where she has been teaching. Those who came to know her while she was in Ada and on her frequent visits here have learned to love her and will mourn her untimely death. Her life came to a close as she was ripening into womanhood and a period of great usefulness.

PROCEEDINGS OF OKLA. LEGISLATURE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 20.—The senate today reconsidered the bill revising the system of taxing automobiles and trucks which failed of passage Tuesday evening, placed some more amendments to it and passed it finally by a vote of 27 to 10. Some members voting against it on Tuesday changed for the measure today. The bill is now ready to go back to the house, where that body must consider the amendments made by the senate.

The changes made today in the bill have to do principally with the rates of taxation. The initial tax is $10 on cars costing $500. Originally the bill coming from the house provided that $1 for each $100 of the cost of the car over the $500 should be added to the $10. The senate first reduced the additional fee to 50c for each $100. Today the senate placed it at 75c. The tax for trucks was not changed and makes the charges according to hauling capacity from $15 to $300 a year. Tractors are left to be taxed on an ad valorem basis, but a penalty is provided where a tractor is run over a hard surfaced road without removing the lugs from the wheels.

All men and women voters of the state will be taxed $1 each a year to raise a home ownership fund, according to the action of the senate this evening on a house bill by McNabb of Sequoyah county. The bill contained this provision when it came from the house a few days ago, but the senate eliminated it. Today it was placed back in the bill and made to include women, who were recently enfranchised in Oklahoma.

The poll tax feature was offered by Senator Fleming, who explained that it was in the bill when it came from the house, but was stricken in the committee. His amendment, however, did not include women voters. Senator Smith did not believe one class of voters should be exempt and offered a motion that included all. This carried. Then came the question of collecting the tax. Senator Johnson offered an amendment that would require each voter to pay the $1 before the voter would be allowed to vote. This was supplemented by another amendment by Senator McIntosh that would require a voter to show a receipt that he had paid the tax before being allowed to vote. Both carried. Senator Leach was against the bill in the form presented, not that he disapproved so much of a home ownership law, but he thought the bill under consideration was not the thing. Senator Draughn believed the poll tax feature would render the whole law unconstitutional if it reached the stage of becoming a law. Senator Golobie thought the bill proposed something that was going in the right direction. Senator Thomas was opposed to the bill. He did not antagonize any effort for a home ownership law that would be effective and bring results, but he could not see that the present bill would do it. He objected particularly to the section which allowed the governor to name a board in each county of the state to administer in part the provisions of the law. These boards were to receive applications from those wishing to become beneficiaries under the law. Finally Senator Tucker called attention to some of the expressions of language and insisted that to make the bill clearly understood it should be corrected. On his motion the bill was sent to a special committee to correct the language and rewrite the section objected to by Senator Thomas, giving the governor power to appoint boards.

The house passed finally the bill by Glasser, Harvey, Harper and others, having to do with the collection of the gross production tax. Under the present system the 3 percent tax is remitted by the producer on the posted price of the oil or gas. The new law requires him to pay on the full cash price received for the oil or gas, which would include the posted price and the bonus, which in some is said to be nearly as much as the posted price of the oil. It was stated that the state would gain more than a million dollars a year under this system.

The house passed the bill by the senate committee on fees and salaries, providing for the appointment by the governor of the parole and pardon clerk. This takes the position from the department of the attorney general. The latter had desired this be done.

The house in committee of the whole recommended for passage the bill by Mr. Newman, making an appropriation for the building and equipping of an additional building at the Southeastern Normal at Durant, and killed the bill by Mr. Robertson, providing for an extension of the term of oil, gas and other mineral leases when the lessor shall institute and prosecute an unsuccessful suit for the forfeiture or cancellation of such leases.

We don't think you do, therefore we don't run to the superlative in our printed word.

We'd rather bring these facts to your notice in a clear, convincing way, than to throw them at you in blurring white puffs of bold braggadocio.

Secret of Concentration.

One reason for the remarkable powers of concentration possessed by some is the intense love of their work. Into which they throw themselves with such ardor as to forget everything else about them. And this, after all, is the secret of all success—to forget oneself in one's work and to become a part of that work itself and so achieve "forgetting and forgot" of all about except the one task to which force, physical and mental, has been brought.

When the Baboon Calls.

Baboons have been a sore trouble lately to many South African folk, and poison clubs have been founded to keep them away and reduce their numbers. Baboons recently raided a farm in Robertson, and, ignoring all efforts to drive them away, rode the donkeys in the back yard. In Lalsburg, driven by hunger, they raided gardens in broad daylight.

Diogenes Knew.

Diogenes held his lantern before the face of a woman. It was Christmas morning and she was remarking: "How darling! It was just what I wanted!" Whereat, the old fellow shook his head in despair and passed on. "She is counting at this very moment," mused Diog., "on what she can exchange it for."

Fought Unnecessary Battle.

Very dramatic was the conclusion of the Peninsular war. Wellington had just won his triumph at Toulouse, the casualties on both sides numbering some 15,000, and the armies were rejoicing or sorrowing, when a tired courier rode up to announce that Napoleon had abdicated five days before, and the war was over.
